SHOOTING PATTERNING TIPS

1. Shoot to area that provides a safe landing.
2. Keep a good aim at moving game and timing patterns.
3. Shoot the designated combination to the target and measure the distance from the pattern to your feet. Repeat until the target is hit in the center of the vital zone.
4. Aim at the target at the edge and center to see and hear your own pattern.
5. Repeat this procedure every year and in new locations to learn patterns.
6. Repeat this procedure for each shotgun combination. Shotgun patterns differently when shooting different sizes of birds in season.
7. Use shot counts, pattern the count to confirm you are consistently hitting in the vital zone in all seasons. This count will allow you to verify.
8. Practice shooting patterns of each bird combination consistently in your own yard to make sure you are using consistent results.
9. Practice shooting patterns in different locations to see how the pattern.
